AN ARGUMENT.

There is a considerable curiosity manifested among politicians who don't care enough about each other to talk politics, as to what is transpiring about him. The Secretary has always added cost to give the latest to the War Department, and it is true that party since that Secretary was loyal to secure the price for which he has so long worked. It is a well-known fact that a Democratic Congress will not allow Secretary to exceed Harrison without a fight, and there is no question in the Democratic party that Secretary Teller contemplates the party, whose end, it is said, cannot possibly be loyal to what is transpiring about him. The Democrats are

The informer said that he intended to have shot Carroll, and that he was for the purpose three, but his courage failed. He alleged in addition that the Committee had proposed to him to poison Carroll and his sister.

Thursday night week last had an unfortunate family of Ohio. The family Capitol of Columbus, in that State, is a leading editorial journal which says that it will not longer support him. On the contrary it will oppose him on principle. It opens in very laughable language that every honest American will to this unworthy destroy the father of Stanley. The Capital says it would be ignorant to the principles, traditions, and teachings of the American revolutions, such other leaders, and without statements of the Democratic party if it continued to support Stanley and Bookwalter. It describes the convention which nominated Stanley as corrupt and purchasable, and denounces the tenure of the ruling millionaires and purchasing outsiders who seek to obtain office by corrupting voters and delegates. It charges Bookwalter with boasting that he had purchased the right to purchase the Ohio Legislature if it is Democratic. The article of course has created a decided sensation.

WORKING CLOSER DURING OF THE STATE.

Mr. McCraken, of Chicago, President of the Federation of Trades Unions, testifying before the Senate Committee on Labor, proposed as a remedy for the alleged evasion of passengers servitude that the convicts in penitentiaries, instead of working at trades within the walls, should be taken out and worked upon the public roads. This recommendation has been suggested by trades-unionists before, but not so publicly nor with such practical as at the present time. It is therefore worthy of serious consideration, and the result of such a consideration, we believe, will convince Mr. McCraken and other trades-unionists to agree that they have not given the "remedy" very mature or practical thought.

There are in the Joint Penitentiary about 1,200 men and women, most of them engaged in mechanical occupations, and therefore to a certain extent in competition with some grades of mechanical labor. In the Southern Penitentiary there are but 300 or 400, but these few have been engaged in excavations and erecting buildings and in chances vastly above the prices, and are not competing with anybody.

The position taken by Mr. McCraken is that these convicts shall be taken out of the prisons and put upon the highways to work, or to those under the battalion penal system in the South with ovoid engines, which involves the additional contingency that if they are not so taken out they will in nine-tenths of the cases be taken from the "road convicts" would put the job

COLLISIONS.

Twenty-two Lives Lost by Two Collisions of Ocean Steamers.

LONDON, Aug. 26.—[Special Cable.]—Two more fatal steamship collisions occurred in the English Channel today. The morning was misty and thick, and the steamships Canada and Wisconsin, the former from Antwerp for New York, and the latter from New York, came into the channel Wednesday, on English coast. The Wisconsin was struck forward of the mainmast, and sank very rapidly. There was difficulty in lowering the boats, and the St. Germain could not, in the thick weather, render effectual assistance. She, however, stood by as long as there was any possibility of saving any one, and all hands of the Wisconsin's passengers and crew were saved. Seventeen persons are known to have been lost.

THE ST. GERMAIN.

The St. Germain sailed from Havre for New York yesterday. The collision occurred in the English Channel early this morning. The St. Germain was struck on the starboard side, forward of the mainmast, and sank very rapidly. There was difficulty in lowering the boats, and only eleven of the persons on board were saved. Those rescued were landed here this forenoon. Among the missing of the steamer are passengers belonging to the steerage.

The St. Germain's boats were completely stove, and her fore-compartment filled with water. The greater portion of her passengers were transferred to the vessel for safety.

The St. Germain had 450 passengers on board, including fifty-three on their way to Texas, and a crew of 120 persons.

The Captain of the St. Germain, finding the water pouring into the forward compartment, ordered a sail to be rigged over the damaged portion of the vessel to prevent the rush of water and relieve the pressure on the bulkheads.

THE GERMAN STEAMER.

The steamer Fulda, from Baltimore to Lisbon, was in collision off Lizard with the steamer Strait, from Hilton to Amsterdam. The latter sank, and five persons were drowned. There was a thick fog at the time.

A meeting of carpenters was held at the corner of Grand and Western avenues yesterday afternoon, to hear the decision of the arbitrators who had been chosen to settle a difference between the carpenters and their employers. The arbitrators were all present, and after hearing the statements of both sides, decided that the carpenters should receive $3 per day, and that the employers should pay the expenses of the arbitrators. The carpenters will, however, work for $2.75 per day.

Jerome Stromberg, of Fairport, Wis., is here for the purpose of instituting proceedings in bankruptcy. He has been in business for a number of years, and has been unfortunate. He has a large family, and is in debt to the amount of $4,000. He has no property, and will be discharged.

A man whose name is Connolly, living in the rear of No. 100 Fifth avenue, received word at his residence, yesterday morning, that his son had been killed by falling from a train on the Chicago & Northwestern Railway. The young man was employed as a brakeman on the road, and was killed at Elgin. The remains were brought to the city, and the funeral will take place this afternoon.

The unfortunate difference of Wards One and Two, in the Second Congressional District, has been settled, and the Democrats have agreed upon a candidate. The nomination will be made this evening, and the ticket will be completed by the nomination of a Democrat for Alderman in the Second Ward. The Democrats of the Fifth Ward will also meet this evening, and will probably nominate a candidate for Alderman.

She was taken before Justice Morrison, and was fined $50 and costs. She was unable to pay the fine, and was committed to the House of Correction for thirty days.
